Snow clearing continues

Edmonton February 1, 2008 – Roadway maintenance crews have made good progress in removing windrows in the middle of many Edmonton streets. Late Thursday night and into early Friday morning:

- Sanding and chipping continued, and will continue 24/7 because of the frigid temperatures and because of the dusting of snow we received over night and early Friday.
- Windrow removal will carry on for several more nights until completed.
- Isolated drifting in alleys and in some residential areas is being cleared away.
- City wide residential plowing will NOT take place until the snow pack exceeds 10 cm.; currently, it is approximately 7 cm. deep.
- Snow is being hauled away from all bus stops across the city.
- Bus service along main routes is running, generally, on schedule with a few minor delays.
- Snow is being cleared from around all fire hydrants.
